Notes: Cumulative figures are for the whole period so far, other figures are monthly, the latest month's data may be incomplete. One 'Monthly FTE' is equivalent to the number of hours one FTE would do in a month, which is 130.35 hours, based on the official definition of full-time as at least 30 hours a week and the average number of weeks in a month. One annual FTE is equivalent to 1,560 hours. New employees can include all types of employment, e.g. full-time, part-time, permanent, fixed-term, casual, and contract. Figures may be subject to revision for improved methodologies and corrections.
